About the UK Key Advances Series

The UK Key Advances in Clinical Practice Series is a major, annually recurring activity designed to catalogue current scientific evidence and expert clinical opinion for the investigation and management of disease, setting this knowledge within the context of service organisation and delivery and with reference to the modern policy requirements of the NHS. The projects are organised in collaboration with medical Royal Colleges and specialist clinical societies and provide material of immediate practical significance to continuing professional development and NHS decision making.

About this symposium

The symposium has been designed to enable a comprehensive examination of recent advances in the investigation and management of colorectal cancers in the UK, including the early detection of disease, its molecular and clinical genetics, the molecular predictors of response to treatment, the current status of adjuvant treatment, the progress of emerging therapies including EGFR inhibition, anti-angiogenesis strategies, histone deacetylation approaches, apoptosis and oncosurgery, recent advances in the management of rectal and anal cancers, ending with a focus on economic evaluation of treatment options, the influence of NICE, the developing role of the advanced clinical nurse specialist and the activities of the leading colorectal cancer charities.

Who should attend?

Consultants in medical and clinical oncology, gastrointestinal surgery and gastroenterology and trainees across these specialties, clinical nurse specialists and oncology pharmacists, consultants in public health medicine, members of the pharmaceutical industry and all those colleagues with a responsibility for or interest in the effective, efficient investigation and management of colorectal and anal malignancies.

Venue

The Royal College of Pathologists, London.

Fee and payment

The fee for attendance is £189 (special rate for nurses and pharmacists £149) with a reduction for early registrations (see the Registration Form overleaf). Fees include lunch, mid session refreshments and all conference materials, including a free copy of the hardback text The Effective Management of Colorectal Cancer. 4th Edition (Cunningham, D., Topham, C. & Miles, A., Eds). Aesculapius Medical Press, London 2005 (normally £39.99). Cheques should be made payable to Key Advances Ltd and sent to the full address shown at the bottom of the Registration Form overleaf. Payments from abroad should be by international bankers' draft or money order in pounds sterling drawn on a UK bank.
