About the UK Key Advances Series

The UK Key Advances in Clinical Practice Series is a major, annually recurring activity designed to catalogue current scientific evidence and expert clinical opinion for the investigation and management of disease, setting this knowledge within the context of service organisation and delivery and with reference to the modern policy environment of the NHS. The projects are organised in collaboration with medical Royal Colleges and specialist clinical societies and provide material of immediate practical significance to continuing professional development and NHS decision making. The Series is currently in its 9th successful annual cycle.

About this symposium

The symposium has been designed to enable a comprehensive examination of recent advances in the investigation and management of inflammatory bowel disease in the UK, including a review of the current epidemiology of disease, its genetic basis and pathogenesis; referral for advanced clinical investigation; the evidence-base for the use of 5-ASAs and 'biologicals'; management of extracolonic symptoms, selection for surgical intervention, the role of chemoprevention; patient self-management as part of effective follow-up strategies and discussion of future therapeutic perspectives. The symposium concludes with an in-depth discussion of methods for improving the efficiency and effectiveness of clinical care through detailed presentations on audit of clinical management, risk management, economic evaluation and the pre-requisites for a national IBD service.

Who should attend?

Consultants in gastroenterology, general medicine and colorectal surgery and all non-consultant career and staff grades across these specialities, general practitioners and GP Trainees, clinical nurse specialists in gastroenterology and medicine, dieticians and clinical nutritionists, clinical pharmacists, consultants in public health medicine, members of the pharmaceutical industry and all those colleagues with a responsibility for or interest in the effective management of IBD.

Venue

The Royal College of Surgeons of England, London.

Fee and payment

The fee for attendance at this 7-CPD, 9 am–5.45 pm, 17-lecture intensive study day has been capped at £189 (special rate for nurses and pharmacists £149).
